Ludovica e Roberto Palomba,

The sectional sofa is the theme that has characterized typological design since the 90s of last century. Ludovica and Roberto Palomba confront it, emphasizing the sense of suspension from the ground, thanks to a thin metal structure and developing, in the version with terminals, a great peninsula from the gracefully asymmetric shape.

Sofa with modular elements made of a metal base structure in tubular steel and elastic belts, feet in drawn steel all painted with polyester powders in bronzed pewter color. Back panels in wood plywood soap-shaped. Padding of seatbacks and seat cushions in polyurethane and goose down rubbers, removable covers in fabric or leather. Indoor use only.
